MESSAGE FROM THE CHAIRMAN

Zakat is an Islamic concept of giving a portion of one's wealth to the needy and is considered a fundamental aspect of Islamic practice. Zakat is the most cardinal and vital system in an Islamic order. You can find prayers, fasting and pilgrimages parallels of Namaz, fasting, Hajj in other religions. But you will not find any institution in any religion something nearer to or similar to zakat. It's an outstanding institution of Islam. The system of Zakat ensures proper distribution of wealth and has a wide impact on the entire set up of the society. If Zakat is established as an institution, with a formal mechanism for efficient Zakat collection and distribution, can have several socio-psychological benefits, including:

- Promoting Social Cohesion: Establishing a formal institutional mechanism for Zakat collection and distribution can promote social cohesion. Providing a platform for the wealthy to give back to the needy. This can help to reduce social inequalities, and promote a sense of community and shared responsibility.
- Fostering Empathy and Compassion: Zakat requires Muslims to be mindful of those who are less fortunate and to actively seek out ways to alleviate their suffering. By establishing a formal institutional mechanism for Zakat collection and distribution, individuals are encouraged to develop greater empathy and compassion towards those in need.
- Enhancing Personal Growth: Giving Zakat can have a positive impact on an individual's personal growth and development by encouraging them to adopt a more selfless and charitable mindset. This can lead to increased feelings of happiness and fulfilment, as well as a greater sense of purpose and meaning in life.
- Improving Social Welfare: The establishment of a formal institutional mechanism for Zakat collection and distribution can have a positive impact on social welfare by ensuring that Zakat funds are distributed in a fair and efficient manner. This can help to address poverty, reduce social inequalities, and improve the overall quality of life for individuals and communities.

In India, there is a significant development in terms of localized management of zakat system. However, the targeted delivery of zakat funds, unorganized collections and lack of transparency remain a matter of concern. There is no formal institutional mechanism for efficient Zakat distribution, and problems of circularity are at mostly affecting the progress of welfare mechanisms. This is where Zakat Center India stands out with its robust formal institutional mechanism of collection and distribution of Zakat. We intend to collect from a city, earmark a few poor colonies and distribute Zakat in such a way that the ummah becomes self-reliant. To achieve this we plan to distribute in the following ways:

- Traditional consumptive i.e. zakat is distributed /given to the poor to meet their daily needs and medical expenses etc.
- Creative consumptive i.e. zakat is manifested in another form of the original goods, such as in the form of school supplies or scholarships in order to reduce the burden of education costs for generations in that particular adopted area
- Traditional productive, where zakat is given in the form of productive goods such as goats, cows, shavers, etc. Giving in this form enables the creation of businesses that provide job opportunities for the poor. ZCI also gives in the form of carts, petty shops, goods for sale that may be used for trading.
- Creative productive, where zakat is manifested in the form of capital either to build social projects or increase the capital of small business traders.

We hope that you would be our partners in this noble cause.
